2. RESEARCH INTERESTS

The subjects I have been working on are:

Cosmology; statistics of the large-scale structure of the Universe and cosmic microwave background (CMB) fluctuations; statistical analysis of large-scale structure and galaxy surveys; use of higher order correlations in cosmology and their applications to galaxy redshift surveys; relationship between the clustering properties of visible matter and of the dark matter; nature of the primordial fluctuations: the initial conditions for cosmological structure formation; dark energy; neutrino properties from cosmology; problems for the Λ CDM paradigm; the H_0 tension; robust analysis and interpretation of forthcoming surveys.

Major projects I have been involved with are (in chronological order):

- I have measured the relationship between the clustering properties of visible matter and of the dark matter from the 2dFGRS catalog. This work became one of the Two-degree-Field Galaxy Redshift Survey team papers. This measurement is particularly important in cosmology as the theory predicts the clustering properties of the dark matter but we mostly trace the large-scale structure via the clustering of visible matter. This measurement led to a determination of the density parameter of the Universe independent from the CMB.
- Between 2002 and 2006 I have been a member of the Wilkinson Microwave Anisotropy Probe (WMAP) science team and I have been directly involved in the analysis, interpretation and the release of the observations of the WMAP satellite. Two articles that reported the WMAP results in 2003 have been the first and second most cited papers in astronomy in 2003 and 2004 and the second and the third most cited papers in physics and in astronomy in the year 2003, 2004 and 2005, surpassed only by “Review of particle physics. Particle data group”. (source SLAC SPIRES). WMAP results were awarded the 2021 Gruber cosmology prize and the 2018 Breakthrough prize in fundamental physics.
- I have been a member of the Atacama Cosmology Telescope (ACT) science team (first light June 2007) until 2010.
- Between 2004 and 2007 I have been member of the team of a proposed NASA space mission as part of JDEM (Joint Dark Energy Mission): Advanced Dark Energy Physics Telescope (ADEPT).
- Membership of SDSS III and BOSS collaboration. (www.sdss3.org), I have been leading the first measurement and interpretation of the higher order statistics of BOSS galaxies (July 2014).
- Membership of EUCLID.
- I have been part of the steering committee and science working group of COrE+ (Cosmic Origins Explorer) a proposed European space mission for CMB polarimetry measurements
- Membership of DESI (Dark energy spectroscopic instrument) since 2016
- Neutrino properties from cosmology
